DEAR READERS,

Nele Noesselt

01 EDITORIAL

Thank you for your interest in the work of the Institute of East Asian Studies (IN-EAST) at the University of Duisburg-Essen. With this 29th annual report we provide you with an overview of select research, teaching, media, and policy advisory activities conducted at the IN-EAST between October 2021 and September 2022. These months have been overshadowed by the continuous spread of SARS-COV-19 and the war in Ukraine – which has caused adjustments of our study programs (including our study abroad programs) and implied interruptions or major modifications of our planned fieldwork activities. The IN-EAST organized roundtables and workshops with the aim to address these global turbulences and disruptive changes and to reflect on their implications for the future of our engagement and exchange with (East) Asia. This included an evening roundtable on Russia's invasion of Ukraine and a symposium on Southeast Asian reactions to the Russian war on Ukraine. Moreover, to address one of the perceived future challenges to the liberal rules-based order, the IN-EAST research forum, in cooperation with the Cluster of Excellence Contestations of the Liberal Script (SCRIPTS, Berlin), featured a lecture series with contributions by internally renowned specialists on Asia and international relations discussing the potential long-term implications of China's global rise. The contributions to this lecture series examined potential fields of conflict and confrontation but also outlined areas for future global cooperation, especially pointing at issues of global climate change and global health. The IN-EAST continues its internal debate on how to contribute to the global combat of climate change. Inspired by the UN's Sustainable Development Goals, the institute is promoting conference and workshop formats that allow for virtual participation and reflects ways to reduce the institute's carbon footprint. Elaborating on the obvious challenges of global climate change and the current energy crisis, the IN-EAST East Asia Day 2022, with contributions by Florian Coulmas and Werner Pascha, reflected on the lessons to be learnt from the Fukushima nuclear accident. The Travelling Conferences project, headed by my colleague Markus Taube, was also continued. The Dortmund conference addressed issues of urban transformation and developmental challenges in metropolitan regions around the world (e.g. post-industrial transformation, demographic change, urban strategies of climate-change mitigation and adaptation, waterfront development). While the PRC still adheres to its zero-COVID strategy, in April 2022, Japan re-opened its doors for international students which allowed us to resume our student exchange programs with our partner universities in Japan. Furthermore, Yuki Abe and Sachiyo Yamaguchi joined the team of Axel Klein as visiting researchers and contributed to the IN-EAST's research on contemporary politics in Japan. We also managed to resume our cooperation with Taiwan – from August to October 2022, Shih Chih-yu (National Taiwan University) conducted research for his project Relations and Roles in China's International Policy: Rediscovering Confucianism in the Pluriversal World (sponsored by the AREA Fellowship Program) and contributed to the institute's PhD programs. Following the relaxation of SARS-COV-19 regulations, the long-time postponed farewell ceremony for Flemming Christiansen was finally held as a hybrid event.

A "Festschrift" honoring his research, compiling essays by his close colleagues and students on one of his core areas of academic interest – Mongolia and Northeast Asia – was handed to him during this ceremony. The IN-EAST also had to say good-bye to its retiring Chinese language instructor, Dr. Du Lun, who had taught at the institute for more than 20 years. A couple of new faces have also joined the IN-EAST: We are delighted to welcome Dr. Monika Arnoštová as new "Akademische Rätin" for Chinese Sociology and Dr. Duanzhuang Zheng as the IN-EAST's new instructor for Modern Chinese. The IN-EAST is also proud to announce that Thomas Heberer and Anna Shpakovskaya were invited by the Franco-German scientific cooperation program in the social and human sciences, L'Agence National de la Recherche (ANR) and Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG), to present the findings of their research project on New Forms of Political Representation in China at a festive symposium in Paris (June 2022). Apart from China-related projects, researchers at the IN-EAST also investigate the phenomenon of populism in and beyond Asia (Axel Klein, Hannes Mosler) as well as issues of transnational migration and labour markets (Karen Shire) and visions and imaginations of the future in East Asia (Markus Taube). Hoping that the world will soon return to a stable "new normal," we are confident all fieldwork activities can finally be resumed – and are looking forward to present and discuss the findings of our research projects with you at one of our forthcoming roundtables or symposia!

3 FESTSCHRIFT FOR FLEMMING CHRISTIANSEN

ON THE OCCASION OF HIS RETIREMENT

On the occasion of Flemming Christiansen's retirement, Christine Moll-Murata (Ruhr-University Bochum and AREA Ruhr) edited a Festschrift with the title Northeast Asia in Focus: Life, Work and Industry between the Steppe and the Metropolis, 1900–2020 (maps and layout by Harald Krähe from the IN-EAST). The volume was presented to Flemming Christiansen during a ceremony on February 10, 2022, which was attended by the various contributors either in person or online. The authors briefly talked about their research and discussed their essays with Flemming Christiansen.

Professor Christiansen held the Chair of Social Sciences of East Asia – Political Sociology of China at the IN-EAST from 2011 to February 2020. He also was the Speaker of the DFG-funded Research Training Group (Graduiertenkolleg) 1613 Risk and East Asia. One of his fields of interest was the recent history of Northeast Asia, including China, Mongolia, Russia, Korea, Manchuria, and Siberia.

The Festschrift was published in the Working Paper series "Green Series" of IN-EAST.

4 CHINA UND DER RUSSISCHE EINMARSCH IN DIE UKRAINE AUS DER REIHE OSTASIEN-GESPRÄCHE

Mit der russischen Invasion in der Ukraine sind die Fundamente der bestehenden Weltordnung erschüttert worden. Die Online-Veranstaltung am 1. März 2022, die auf sehr großes Interesse stieß und über 500 Teilnehmer hatte, befasste sich mit der Frage, welche Rolle China in diesem Zusammenhang spielt und welche Konsequenzen sich hieraus für Chinas Aufstellung in der Weltgemeinschaft ergeben. Wie stellt sich China zu seinem Belt-&-Road-Partner Ukraine? Wie positioniert sich China in dem sich verschärfenden Konflikt zwischen den USA und Russland? Ist die Ukraine-Aggression eine Blaupause für Chinas Vorgehen gegenüber Taiwan? Kann Russland westliche Sanktionen durch eine Intensivierung der Wirtschaftsbeziehungen unterlaufen, oder begibt Russland sich in Abhängigkeit von China? Welche Zukunft hat die schienengebundene Neue Seidenstraße und der Duisburger „Hauptbahnhof“?

5 TRAVELLING CONFERENCES ON URBAN TRANSFORMATIONS IN INDUSTRIAL REGIONS

Travelling Conferences (TCs) are a format designed to promote and foster international exchange about current issues and include presentations as well as panel and roundtable discussions. Organized by the University Alliance Ruhr, the TC series on Urban Transformations in Industrial Regions aims to combine theoretical and conceptual approaches with empirical research on current policies. More precisely, they focus on urban transformation and comparable challenges in metropolitan regions around the world, such as post-industrial transformation, demographic change, urban strategies of climate-change mitigation and adaptation, waterfront development, the global exchange of policies, and strategies and blueprints pertaining to these issues.

After successfully conducting conferences in November 2019 in Osaka and in Ulsan, the TCs on Urban Transformation continued with symposia at TU Dortmund University on March 4–5, 2022, and at the University of Cincinnati on September 19–20, 2022. Along with other researchers from the member institutions of the University Alliance Ruhr, Markus Taube from the IN-EAST presented his findings in Dortmund.

6 CIVIL SOCIETIES' REACTIONS OF EAST- AND SOUTHEAST ASIAN COUNTRIES TO THE RUSSIAN WAR ON UKRAINE

AUS DER REIHE OSTASIEN-GESPRÄCHE

The Russian invasion of Ukraine and the US- and EU-led response to it are watershed events in global affairs with far-reaching political and economic implications for East and Southeast Asian stability. Governments in these regions have largely sided with the USA and the EU in the General Assembly of the United Nations; however, due to historically rooted and strategic reasons, most Southeast Asian governments did not join the West's efforts in sanctioning Russia. As the long-term consequences of the geopolitical and economic shifts initiated by this conflict will become discernible, analysis of the divergent perspectives in public opinions and civil society organizations as well as the evaluation states' responses are urgent. This virtual panel discussion on April 26, 2022, part of the East Asia Talks series, was a first attempt to provide a critical assessment of the responses of selected countries across East and Southeast Asia.

The panel was organized jointly by the Institute of East Asian Studies at the University of Duisburg-Essen (IN-EAST), the German Institute of Japanese Studies, Tokyo (DIJ), the Chair of Transregional Southeast Asian Studies at Humboldt University Berlin, and the Faculty of Political Science, Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok.

In July 2022, IN-EAST published in its Working Paper series "Green Series" the essays extracted by the participants from their contributions to the discussion, together with two additional essays.

7 ENERGIESCHOCK – JAPAN NACH FUKUSHIMA UND WAS WIR DARAUS LERNEN KÖNNEN

26. DUISBURGER OSTASIENTAG 2022

Am 10. Juni 2021 veranstaltete das IN-EAST seinen 26. Ostasientag.

Nach der Nuklearkatastrophe von Fukushima am 11. März 2011 wurden in Japan in kurzer Zeit alle, auch die nicht zerstörten, Kernkraftwerke abgeschaltet. Bis heute sind nur sehr wenige Atomkraftwerke wieder in Betrieb. Nach diesem exogenen Schock musste rund 30 % aller elektrischen Energie eingespart oder durch andere Energiequellen ersetzt werden. Die russische Aggression in der Ukraine kann bald die Länder Europas vor eine ähnliche Herausforderung stellen.

Es wurden die gesellschaftlichen, politischen und ökonomischen Auswirkungen eines solchen exogenen Schocks im Energiesektor am Beispiel Japans nach Fukushima diskutiert: Wie reagierte die Politik? Welche Maßnahmen wurden getroffen? Wie wurde versucht, elektrische Energie einzusparen? Welche Auswirkungen hatte dies auf das Leben der Menschen? Funktionierten unverbindliche Selbstverpflichtungen? Wie waren die Auswirkungen auf die Wirtschaft? ... Und was können wir heute daraus lernen?

Die Podiumsdiskussion als Hybridveranstaltung fand vor Zuschauern im Gerhard-Mercator-Haus statt – ein Diskussteilnehmer und viele andere Zuschauer waren per Video zugeschaltet.

8 FINALLY, OFF TO JAPAN!

Covid-19 not only prevented IN-EAST from celebrating its graduates and new students, but also many of our students from studying in East Asia. While South Korea kept its borders open for exchange students, Japan, Taiwan and the PR China closed their gates, forcing

IN-EAST to come up with alternative ways for its students to gain the credits they would normally have gained during their obligatory year abroad. In April 2022, however, Japan changed its policy and allowed our students to enter the country and join our partner universities. Some of our students had waited for more than two years, hardly believing the stay abroad would ever come true. Now, however, they are spread over all of Japan, enjoying the reward for their patience and endurance.

9 DUISBURG SUB-PROJECT WAS AWARDED BY ANR AND DFG NEW FORMS OF POLITICAL REPRESENTATION IN CHINA

On the occasion of the 15th anniversary of the establishment of the Franco-German scientific cooperation program in the social and human sciences, L'Agence National de la Recherche (ANR) and Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG) selected a number of outstanding funded projects to present their results to a Franco-German public at a ceremony. Among them is the Duisburg sub-project on New Forms of Political Representation in China. Prof. Dr. Thomas Heberer and Dr. Anna Shpakovskaya were invited by ANR and DFG to present the results of their subproject at a festive colloquium in Paris on June 15, 2022. Their presentation covered two topics: (1) a typology of political representation in authoritarian systems using China as an example, where they will focus on informal forms of representation, and (2) a new conceptual framework: "digital political representation", i.e. representation in the form of actors' self-representation via smartphone networks. For three years, Thomas Heberer and Anna Shpakovskaya had conducted research on this topic in different regions of China.

SILENCE

Das olympische Feuer ist wichtig, es ist eines der bedeutsamsten Symbole. Das „Feuer“ steht für den olympischen Geist und für die Völkerverständigung. Im Jahr 1964 wurden in Tokio die Olympischen Spiele eröffnet, sie werden heute als Wendepunkt des Wiederaufbaus in der Nachkriegszeit für die japanische Geschichte und Gesellschaft angesehen. Der Blick der Welt auf das Land war ein besonderer.

57 Jahre später stehen Themen wie „Wiedergeburt“ und Resilienz erneut im Fokus des inneren und äußeren Blickes auf Japan. Die Jahre 2020/2021 der XXXII. Olympiade symbolisieren für Japan und die Megametropole Tokio die Widerstandsfähigkeit einer Weltgesellschaft inmitten einer globalen Pandemie.

Bilder, Texte und Tondokumente sind wichtiger Bestandteil dieser transmedialen Narration mit einer ungewohnten Sicht auf Emotionen sowie einsame und banale Momente dieser Olympischen Spiele im Jahr 2021 in Tokio – die anders waren.

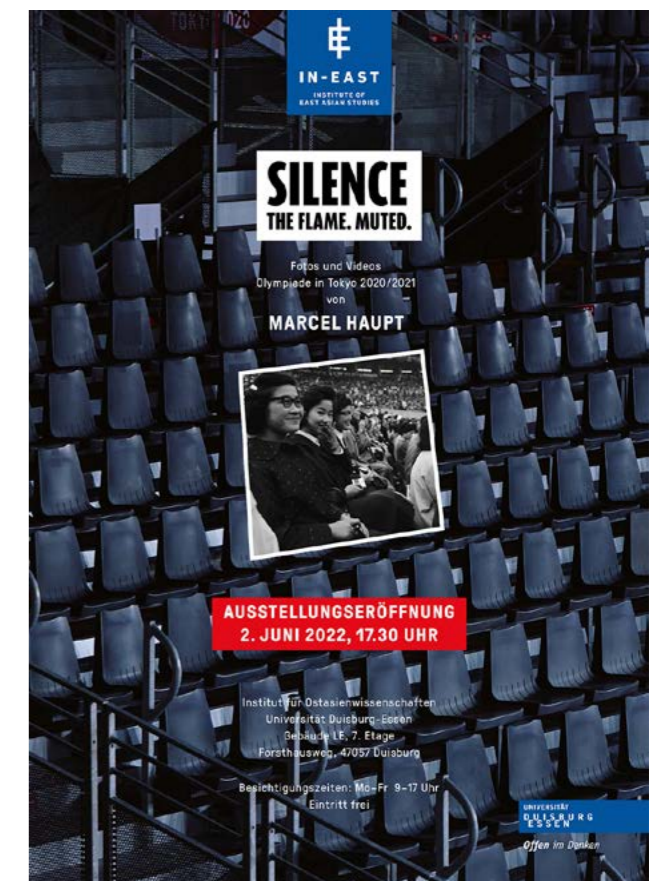

THE FLAME. MUTED.

Am 2. Juni 2022 haben Marcel Haupt und die beiden Professoren von der Heinrich-Heine-Universität Düsseldorf, der Soziologe Shingo Shimada, der als Kind die Olympischen Spiele 1964 in Japan erlebte, und der Kulturwissenschaftler Christian Tagsold, der die Spiele von 1964 in seiner Dissertation analysierte, über die Besonderheiten, die Unterschiede und Ähnlichkeiten dieser beiden Sportgroßereignisse diskutiert.

Marcel Haupt (*1986) ist ein in Köln lebender freiberuflicher Fotograf und Multimedia-Geschichtenerzähler mit Werbeagentur-Hintergrund. Er ist einer der wenigen Fotografen, die bei den Olympischen Sommerspielen in Tokio 2021 akkreditiert waren. Als ehemaliger Judo-Spitzen Sportler hat er seine Eindrücke in Fotos und Videos festgehalten, welche die besondere Atmosphäre an den Wettkampfstätten vermitteln und emotionale Momente von SportlerInnen zeigen.

11 40 JAHRE DUISBURG-WUHAN

40 JAHRE DEUTSCH-CHINESISCHER ZUSAMMENARBEIT

Duisburg–Wuhan: Die erste deutsch-chinesische Städtepartnerschaft wurde im Jahr 1982 begründet. Seitdem befinden sich die beiden Städte in intensivem Austausch. Die Kooperationen umfassen Schulpartnerschaften, Wissenschaftsaustausch, wirtschaftliche Zusammenarbeit und vieles mehr. Im Laufe der Zeit haben sich Inhalte und Form der Partnerschaft verändert. Durch die akute weltpolitische Lage sind neue Herausforderungen dazu gekommen.

In dieser gemeinsamen Veranstaltungsreihe der Stadt Duisburg, des Instituts für Ostasienwissenschaften (IN-EAST) und der Alliance for Research on East Asia Ruhr (AREA Ruhr) diskutierten ausgewiesene Chinawissenschaftler verschiedene Dimensionen des Austausches: Welche Bedeutung hat China und die Neue Seidenstraße für die deutsche Wirtschaft? Wie entwickeln sich die politischen Beziehungen zwischen China und Deutschland bzw. Europa? Was sind die technologiepolitischen Implikationen der digitalen Seidenstraße? Welche Bedeutung hat heute der kulturelle Austausch? Welche Bedeutung kommen Städtepartnerschaften zu?

Wissenschaftler des IN-EAST beteiligten sich mit Vorträgen zum Verhältnis China-Deutschland (alle im Kultur- und Stadthistorischen Museum Duisburg).

12 FREE ELECTION TOOL FOR JAPAN

AXEL KLEIN AND MAPCHART.NET

Axel Klein established a website that provides the political science community working on Japan with a freely accessible tool to visualize results and other election-related information on a map that covers all 289 single member districts of the Lower House of the Japanese Diet (<https://www.uni-due.de/~hy1662/JEDM/japan-districts.html>). What distinguishes this service from those in Japan is the use of English names for prefectures and other places, making it a welcome instrument to illustrate academic articles and teaching materials.

13 6. KOREANISCH-REDEWETTBEWERB

Am 18. Juni 2022 fand unter der Ägide des Instituts für Ostasienwissenschaften IN-EAST (Hannes Mosler und Stefan Knoob) und gemeinsam mit der Botschaft der Republik Korea, Außenstelle Bonn, im Glaspavillon des Campus Essen unter dem Motto „Mal, Mal, Hanguk-mal“ der 6. Koreanisch-Redewettbewerb für Studierende in Deutschland statt.

Auf Koreanisch präsentierten dort 23 Studierende aus ganz Deutschland ihre Reden zum Thema „Koreanische Populärkultur“. Auf Koreanisch und fast immer auswendig referierten die Teilnehmer*innen von Hochschulen in Aachen, Bochum, Berlin, Bonn, Düsseldorf, Hamburg und Tübingen über Ihre Begegnungen mit und Gedanken zu koreanischen Filmen, Serien, Literatur und Mode ebenso wie traditionellem Musiktheater, Ess- und Kochkultur, E-Sport und anderen Themen der koreanischen Populärkultur. Die besten acht unter Ihnen durften sich bei der Preisverleihung durch den Generalkonsul Seung-jae Huh über Preise wie ein Flugticket nach Korea, elektronische Geräte und Reiskocher freuen.

In einem qualitativ sehr hochwertigen Feld überzeugte als Hauptpreisträgerin Binta Ceesay von der HTW Berlin mit einem Vortrag mit dem Titel Romantisches Korea. In ihrem Vortrag beschäftigte sie sich auf fast muttersprachlichem Niveau mit verschiedenen romantischen Facetten Koreas – von Romantik in koreanischen Serien über den „White Day“, an dem sich Frauen für Valentinsgeschenke revanchieren, bis zu ihrem Lieblingslied – und sicherte sich so den Flug nach Korea. Auch die beiden Zweitplatzierten Maïke Orthgieß von der Ruhr-Universität Bochum (Was macht die koreanische Populärkultur für uns alle so attraktiv?) und Victoria Plasa von der Universität Tübingen (Über ihre Liebe zum theatralischen Musikvortrag des Pansori) beeindruckten mit hervorragend präsentierten Vorträgen.

Wie immer, wenn es um Korea geht, durfte es an gutem Essen nicht fehlen, und so konnten sich alle während der Jurysitzung an der von der Botschaft großzügig gestifteten Auswahl von Dossirak (Lunchboxen) mit Bulgogi, Dak-ganjang, Japchae und vegetarischem Bibimbap versuchen.

14 GRADUATION CEREMONY & FAREWELL TO DR. LUN DU

Since 2019, IN-EAST had to cancel plans to hold its annual graduation ceremony three times because of Covid-19. On July 11, 2022, however, the Institute dared to invite its graduates to celebrate – albeit on a smaller scale. BA- and MA graduates gathered on campus, enjoyed beautiful unplugged music by Tugba (vocals) & Trenton (acoustic guitar), and their very own moment in the spotlight as they were called out for their academic achievements and handed their certificates.

But there was more: After more than 20 years as the IN-EAST's Chinese Language instructor Dr. Lun Du said good-bye. Honored in a special speech by Professor Thomas Heberer, Lun Du reflected on the many students he had taught over the years and how he enjoyed seeing mastering Mandarin. Lun Du will retire at the end of 2022 and leave a grateful Institute, cohorts of students, but also a very motivated successor behind: Zheng Duanzhuang joined IN-EAST on August 1, 2022. 欢迎!

AREA Day 2021 and 2022

In late 2021, AREA Ruhr started its newly established annual event called AREA Day or "AREA-Tag" which seeks to explore traces of East Asia in North Rhine-Westphalia ("Auf den Spuren Ostasiens in NRW") and to introduce them to a general audience. On 10 November 2021, the virtual kick-off event offered two lectures on Japanische

Architektur(einflüsse) in NRW. The lectures were given by AREA Ruhr's co-director Katja Schmidtpott (OAW) and associated member PD Dr. Beate Löffler (TU Dortmund University). Both talks were followed by a lively discussion with the audience.

- PD Dr. Beate Löffler (TU Dortmund University / AREA Ruhr): Architektonischer Kulturtransfer: Von Japan nach NRW.
- Prof. Dr. Katja Schmidtpott (OAW / AREA Ruhr): Tange Kenzō, die Metabolisten und die Ruhr-Universität Bochum.

On 24 June 2022, the second AREA Day followed at the DKM Museum in Duisburg which offers a fine selection of East Asian art. On top of taking part in guided museum tours, AREA Ruhr's guests were invited to join tea tasting seminars on Chinese tea (by Wieland Schulz) and to listen to two lectures related to Deutsch-chinesischer Austausch im Schatten der großen Politik: kommunale Partnerschaften und Hochschulkooperationen. The lectures were given by Prof. Thomas Heberer (senior professor at the IN-EAST and member of AREA Ruhr) and Matthias Stepan, M.A. (OAW/RUB).

- Prof. Dr. Thomas Heberer (IN-EAST / AREA Ruhr): Deutsch-chinesische Städtepartnerschaften und Städtediplomatie. Schwerpunkt Nordrhein-Westfalen.

You can view a video on the event on AREA Ruhr's website: www.area-ruhr.de.

AREA Ruhr Fellowship: International Guest Researchers

In May 2022, AREA Ruhr hosted guest researcher Dr. Eugenia Prasol, a Japan specialist, who had to flee from the Ukraine due to the war. AREA Ruhr planned to provide Eugenia with a research fellowship for six months, but she was already able to get a position at Nagasaki University in Japan in June 2022.

In mid-August 2022 AREA Ruhr welcomed Prof. Chih-yu Shih from Taiwan National University as guest researcher and AREA Ruhr fellowship recipient. While staying with AREA Ruhr Chih-yu plans to continue his research on Relations and Roles in Chinese Foreign Policy, to give a guest lecture on Intellectual History of China and Chinese Studies: The Perspectives of Post-Chinese-ness (14 October 2022), and to coach doctoral students at a workshop (17 October 2022).

CONFUCIUS INSTITUTE METROPOLIS RUHR

The Confucius Institute Metropolis Ruhr, based in Duisburg, was officially established in autumn 2009. It is a registered non-profit association under German law with the city of Duisburg, the University of Duisburg-Essen and the University of Wuhan as major (but not only) members. In this form the Confucius Institute Metropolis Ruhr is also an affiliated "An-Institut" at the University of Duisburg-Essen. The city of Duisburg and the University of Duisburg-Essen provide an ideal location for a Confucius Institute, as both feature strong links to China and Wuhan in particular. The Confucius Institute Metropolis Ruhr understands itself as a platform for a fact-based exchange on China, current developments in the country as well its interaction with the rest of the world. As such the Confucius Institute offers a variety of course programs for Chinese language training, cultural skills and general knowledge of the country and its recent history. Besides that the Confucius Institute organizes lectures and workshops on pressing issues of China's current economic and socio-political development. IN-EAST professors Thomas Heberer (until Dec. 2021) and Markus Taube serve together with Li Chao, lecturer at the German Department, Wuhan University, as Co-Directors of the Confucius Institute Metropolis Ruhr.

MERCATOR INSTITUTE FOR CHINA STUDIES (MERICs)

In July 2014, IN-EAST (University of Duisburg-Essen) and the Faculty of East Asian Studies (Ruhr University Bochum) started a closer cooperation with the Mercator Institute for China Studies (MERICs), Berlin, which was given the status of an affiliated institute ("An-Institut") of both universities. MERICs is a research and analysis institute, or think tank, established in 2013 and based in Berlin. It is an initiative of Stiftung Mercator, a major private European foundation. MERICs is one of the largest international think tanks for policy-oriented research into and knowledge of contemporary China. It analyses the political, economic, social, technological and ecological developments in China, and the corresponding global impacts, providing the public with insight into China through up-to-date research and communication. It informs decision-makers in politics, business and society and acts as a key contact for the media. As such, MERICs aims to provide a nuanced perspective on the most populous nation on earth, to influence public debate, and to enhance expertise on China in Germany and Europe. The research is concentrated on ten analysis topics:

- EU-China
- 20th CPC Party Congress
- Industrial Policy and Technology
- Climate and Environment
- Geopolitics
- Coronavirus
- Trade and Investment
- New Silk Road
- Hong Kong
- Digital China

EASTASIANET

EastAsiaNet is the European Research School Network of Contemporary East Asian Studies, and IN-EAST is a founding member since 2006. It actually took the initiative in starting the network in the mid 2000s. The activity has led to lively academic cooperation, person-to-person contacts, personnel exchanges and career encouragement as well as several scholarly publications.

Leading member of the steering group are Dominik Mierzejewski (Łódź), and Hannes Mosler (IN-EAST).

The EAN team in Prague from Charles University organized a workshop on April 8–9, 2022 on East Asia: Dynamics of Interactions with presentations by Hannes Mosler and Francis Yoon from the IN-EAST.

Language, Migration and Happiness: A Comparative Study of Subjective Well-Being across Three Communities in Germany

Funded by German Research Foundation (DFG, AOBJ 647584), 2018–2022

Does using one's native language in a foreign environment contribute to happiness? This is the overarching question this project is designed to address. The impact of many other social variables – marital status, religion, employment, income, leisure, quality of governance, education, among others – on happiness has been investigated empirically, but not language. The focus of this three-community comparative study is on what relationship exists between language maintenance and happiness for minority communities of diverse profiles and backgrounds for their residence in Germany. It will help us to gain a more comprehensive understanding of language as a social and individual variable. No similar study has been done before.

The three communities to be investigated are the Turkish, Chinese, and Japanese communities in Germany. We acknowledge that each community is heterogenous in its own right in terms of geographical origins, backgrounds of residents, and motives of residing in Germany. However, in spite of the internal diversity, as communities they still differ markedly from each other with regard to their history of settlement in Germany and characteristic socio-economic profiles (see below for details). As we will show, such contrasting trajectories and backgrounds of the three selected groups, as well as the difference in extent to which scholarship on them is developed, facilitate the formulation of our pilot study questions and subsequent hypothesising, data collection, and ultimately the development of new theories on SWB and language maintenance among migrant groups.

Hybrid East Asian Language Learning Program (HELLP)

Gemeinschaftsprojekt des IN-EAST der UDE sowie des Landesspracheninstituts (LSI) und der Fakultät für Ostasienwissenschaften der Ruhr-Universität Bochum (RUB-OAW)

Förderung: MERCUR Mercator Research Center Ruhr, 2019–2022

Das Hybrid East Asian Language Learning Program (HELLP) zielt auf eine nachhaltige, signifikante Verbesserung und Homogenisierung der sprachpraktischen Kenntnisse und Fertigkeiten in der Studierendenausbildung in den ostasiatischen Sprachen ab. Die Erfahrungen aus diesem Pilotprojekt bilden die Grundlage für die weitere Entwicklung hybrider Sprachlernelemente im Lernangebot für Ostasiatische Sprachen.

Es sollen vor allem zwei Ziele erreicht werden: Zum einen soll das Potenzial neuer Technologien für den Spracherwerb in den ostasiatischen Sprachen durch die Integration IT-basierter Elemente systematisch erschlossen werden. Zum anderen soll das Problem der sehr unterschiedlich entwickelten fachlichen Sprachkompetenzen in MA-Programmen adressiert werden. Regionalwissenschaftliche MA-Programme wie der MA Modern East Asian Studies (UDE) oder der MA Politik Ostasiens (RUB) attrahieren in hohem Maße (internationale) Studierende aus sehr unterschiedlich strukturierten grundständigen Studienprogrammen, deren Verständniskompetenzen der in MA-Programmen verwendeten originalsprachlichen Fachtexte und Quellen sehr unterschiedlich entwickelt sind. Mit HELLP wird eine nachhaltige, signifikante Verbesserung und Homogenisierung der sprachpraktischen Kenntnisse und Fertigkeiten, vor allem der Lese-, Hör- und Sprechkompetenzen Chinesisch und Japanisch im Oberstufenbereich in Bezug auf die Themenfelder Wirtschaft, Politik und Gesellschaft Chinas bzw. Japans, erreicht.

In enger inhaltlicher wie funktionaler Abstimmung wird von den Projektbeteiligten ein hybrides Kursangebot als Kombination aus einem Online-Kurs für den eigenständigen, autonomen Erwerb des Chinesischen bzw. Japanischen sowie einem hiermit verbundenen didaktischen Angebot für den Präsenzunterricht (Intermediate and advanced reading module) entwickelt und implementiert. Das Kursangebot basiert technologisch auf dem Personal Learning Environment (PLE) LSI.online des Landesspracheninstituts. Fachdozent*innen und Lektor*innen an den Universitäten entwickeln in enger Kooperation die Inhalte des Programms und sind verantwortlich für die Durchführung der Präsenzelemente.

Das hybride Kursangebot (PLE) wird ca. 120 didaktisch und linguistisch aufbereitete, aktuelle Texte zu den Themenfeldern Wirtschaft, Politik und Gesellschaft Chinas bzw. Japans (kontextsensitive Wörterbuchfunktion, grammatische Hilfen, Kommentierung und Protokollierung etc.) sowie ca. 600 interaktive text- und inhaltsbezogene Übungen enthalten. Außerdem enthält der Kurs die didaktische Planung und entsprechende Materialien für die Gestaltung des Präsenzunterrichts. Studieninteressente können dieses Online-Angebot dem Studium vorgelagert nutzen und werden so an die im jeweiligen MA-Programm nachgefragten fortgeschrittenen Sprachkompetenzen herangeführt. Der Kurs wird während des MA-Programms in Kombination mit Präsenzveranstaltungen fortgeführt.

Die ökonomische und gesellschaftliche Bedeutung der „Neuen Seidenstraße“ für die Stadt Duisburg, das Ruhrgebiet und das Land NRW. Gesellschaftspolitisch-ökonomische Begleitforschung

Gefördert durch: Ministerium für Wirtschaft, Industrie, Klimaschutz und Energie des Landes NRW, Stadt Duisburg, Sparkasse-Duisburg-Stiftung, Volksbank Rhein-Ruhr und Business Metropole Ruhr GmbH, 2021–2024

Research Associate: Anna Shpakovskaya

Die Ausbildung einer „Neuen Seidenstraße“ manifestiert sich in einer umfassenden Intensivierung der ökonomischen, politischen und gesellschaftlichen Beziehungen auf der Ost-West-Achse des eurasischen Doppelkontinents. Zunächst angestoßen durch die chinesische „Belt and Road“-Initiative und jüngst komplementiert durch die „Konnektivitätsstrategie“ der Europäischen Union bildet sie das derzeit ambitionierteste und sich am dynamischsten entwickelnde Projekt zur Stärkung der grenzübergreifenden Arbeitsteilung und multinationalen Strukturgebung weltweit. Die „Neue Seidenstraße“ bietet somit einen Gegenpol zu dem anderweitig zu beobachtenden Trend einer Entkopplung von Einzelstaaten und Regionen von gemeinsamen globalen wie regionalen Ordnungsstrukturen.

Die Stadt Duisburg, das Ruhrgebiet und das Land Nordrhein-Westfalen haben frühzeitig die sich im Rahmen der „Neuen Seidenstraße“ ergebenden Chancen und Potenziale erkannt und sich auf verschiedenen Ebenen an der Entfaltung diverser Teilprojekte dieser Initiative aktiv beteiligt. Mit dieser Begleitstudie soll (1) spezifisches Wissen über die im Rahmen der Entfaltung der „Neuen Seidenstraße“ zum Tragen kommenden Struktureffekte, Triebkräfte und Wirkungsmechanismen geschaffen, und sollen (2) konkrete Handlungsempfehlungen für die zielgerichtete Umsetzung der von „Neue Seidenstraße“-Projekten ausgehenden Impulse generiert werden.

Innovative Forms of Democratic Participation: Deliberations in a Japanese and German Comparison

Funded by BMBF (Federal Ministry of Education and Research), No. 01UL 1828X, 09/2018–03/2022

As the principal investigator of the research project, Momoyo Hüstebeck scrutinizes the empirical impact of deliberative innovations on German and Japanese representative democracies. To counteract the widely lamented (partial) crisis of established democracies, political scientists have pursued more direct ways of citizens in institutional policy-making processes. In this context, deliberative methods provide a public opinion on a given political topic for a governmental policy-making.

The project investigates, based on normative theories of deliberative and participatory democracies against this background, whether new deliberative methods are effective responses to the democratic challenges. Among the vast number of European and some Japanese case studies of deliberative innovations, a research with a German-Japanese comparative approach is still lacking. Thus, the bi-national comparison shall reveal, how deliberative innovations are politically and socially embedded in the respective political system.

For Japan, mini-publics and the first national Deliberative Poll in 2012 serve as empirical cases. Mini-publics are the most widely spread deliberative method in Japan. Local governments implement mini-publics for citizens' voices concerning local long-term policies. In the Deliberative Poll, randomly selected citizens from all over Japan discussed and formed their opinions about Japan's future energy strategies after the nuclear accident.

Momoyo Hüstebeck was a guest fellow at the Waseda University and the DIJ in Tokyo in May 2019. She searched empirically for the functions of mini-publics in the local governance of Mitaka City and Shinjuku Ward. Moreover, she interviewed the organizers of the national Deliberative Poll about their intentions to implement it and their assessments of its political outcome.

PinEAD – Populism in Japan and East Asian Democracies

Awarded with a Research Fellowship by the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science (JSPS)

This project focusses on populism in Japan. In the conceptually and empirically diverse body of literature the sheer existence of populism is contested as are its key components and consequently its definition. The phenomena labelled as Japanese manifestations of populism include a very diverse group of political actors that make it difficult to see a common conceptual ground. One finding most scholars agree upon, however, is that so far the case of Japan is almost non-existent in comparative efforts of the international political science community. Supported by a research fellowship of the Japanese Society for the Promotion of Science, this project sets out to strengthen our understanding of populism in Japan, but it will also be the starting point of a broader endeavor. Hannes Mosler and Frédéric Krumbain joined the project with their expertise on South Korea and Taiwan, respectively, to approach populism in East Asian democracies from a comparative perspective.

Dynamics of Chinese Social Policy: Interplay of National and International Influences Subject Classification

Funded by the German Research Foundation (DFG), 2018–December 2021

Since the 1990s and especially since the mid-2000s, China has been implementing the largest social policy project in its history, subject to limited attention from the West. Although Chinese social policy is largely based on its own traditions, its emergence and expansion have been influenced by international interdependencies of various origins. The project's central question is the following: How have these internal and external influences affected and shaped Chinese social policy and which mechanisms were involved? The period under review covers the years between 1990 and 2020.

The first phase of the project has two aims: Firstly, a comprehensive reconstruction of the developmental dynamics in the three important policy fields of old-age provision, healthcare and unemployment insurance will be conducted. Secondly, we will explain the different dynamics in these fields by identifying the interplay of international and national influencing factors that are responsible for the variance in spread, degree of inclusion and generosity. Here we will examine the mechanisms by which international interdependencies affect the national development of social policy, in particular the evolution of ideas and the choice of models and programmes. The project will combine insights from the literature on diffusion with institutionalist policy analysis. The case studies will be analysed using a method mix comprising process tracing and quantitative techniques. While we will collect data from Chinese databases and interviews with experts, we will also evaluate archive material and conduct a content analysis of secondary literature. Our findings should lead to a greater understanding of this case of an expansion of social policy under autocratic conditions, which is of particular interest for international comparisons. In the second phase we will, among other questions, investigate whether the current reforms of the hukou system, which disadvantages the rural population, are leading to an alignment of rural and urban social security systems. We will also assess how internal and external factors interact in the recently locally tested long-term care insurance. In this context, we will take a comparative look at the East Asian region, since long-term care insurance has already been introduced (Japan, South Korea) or tested (Taiwan) there. Finally, we ask in a "South-South" perspective whether China's social policy is a role model for other countries of the Global South.

Comparative Regionalism in New Eurasia: Trilateral Perspectives for ROK's New Northern Policy

In cooperation with Korea University, Seoul. Funded by the National Research Foundation of Korea, 07/2021–06/2024

The aim of this project is to study South Korea's New Northern Policy in the context of the challenges and opportunities given by China's Belt and Road Initiative and the US' Indo-Pacific Strategy, and to develop a Eurasian strategy, which through revitalization of multilateralism can contribute to the efforts of establishing a peace system on the Korean Peninsula and Northeast Asia. In a situation where the competition for hegemony between the US and China is intensifying and cooperation between Russia and North Korea is uncertain, how South Korea can secure an initiative for cooperation in Eurasia is an important question to answer. Therefore, this study invokes the approach of Calder (2019) who understands Europe and Asia as one "supercontinent" rather than setting the geographical concept of Eurasia as Russia and Central Asia. Against this backdrop, this study examines the structure of Eurasian regionalism and the multilateralism that takes place within this context from the perspectives of global, European, and Northeast Asian countries. The project team is led by Prof. Jae-Seung Lee (Korea University), and consists of collaborative researchers based in South Korea, Europe and Northern America.

The Role of Japanese Intermediaries and Language Schools in the Integration of Vietnamese Skilled Workers in the IT Sector in Japan

Funded by BMBF (Federal Ministry of Education and Research), No. 01UL2003B, 03/2021–12/2024

This four-year project examines roles of the Japanese private intermediaries and educational institutions in the construction of 'skills' of qualified Vietnamese IT workers in Japan. Acknowledging the accelerated drop in the working population, the Japanese government is reluctant to introduce official migration policies, but the country has been interested in attracting foreign skilled professionals. Vietnamese-nationals in a language school in Japan increase its presence in the labour market in Japan, so as the Vietnamese skilled workers in the IT sector. The population of Vietnamese-nationals nowadays provides essential workforce to the Japanese labour market, and the Japanese language school and the private intermediaries have been serving as a crucial labour migration channel to Japan. However, the field of research still lacks investigations in how the skill of the foreign professionals has been constructed by the language school and the intermediaries, and how they interact with each other to 'produce' skilled labour in the channel. It is also worth pondering over how the Vietnamese skilled IT professionals integrate into the labour market or not. This project sheds light on the IT sector which is exposed to high demand of skilled foreign labour. Focusing on this male-dominant sector, this study also looks at how female Vietnamese skilled workers contribute to the labour market by using their skills. To investigate the above-mentioned questions, this project will apply qualitative ethnographic methods, which include a combination of online/digital and physical semi-structured interviews.

Group project

This individual research falls under a four-year collaborative project Qualification and Skill in the Migration Process of Foreign Workers in Asia (QuaMaFA). The group brings together four other collaborators who are working on international skilled migration in Asia: Ruth Achenbach (Goethe University Frankfurt), Helena Hof (Max Planck Institute for the Study of Religious and Ethnic Diversity), Joohyun Justine Park (Goethe University Frankfurt), and Megha Wadhwa (Free University Berlin).

The group consists of young migration researchers who specialise in sociological, psychological, and anthropological disciplines. This project examines the role of skills in labour migration in (South)East Asia where nowadays accept migrants. The group members conduct studies in Japan, South Korea, China, Singapore, Vietnam and India.

Role Change and Role Contestation in the People's Republic of China: Globalization of "Chinese" Concepts of Order?

Principal Investigator

Funded by Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG), Project No. 238920157, 2020–2023

This project analyzes the global implications resulting from the institutional reforms and the re-steering of the PRC's development model since 2013. The recalibration of the Chinese party-state – as the evaluation of the inner-Chinese debates on modes of governance and development roadmaps (2002–2017) evidences – reflects changes at the global level and calculates potential global-local spill-over effects. At the same time, China's increased global presence and its economic power might imply that Chinese governance concepts and normative ordering principles will play a more prominent role in the reform of the institutional backbones of the world system in the near future. The "New Silk Road" initiative is just one example how core elements of China's domestic development blueprints are exported to the regional and global level. Various competing views on political rule, ordering principles, and China's global role co-exist among factions inside the Chinese Communist Party as well as among China's epistemic communities. China's official national role set is currently undergoing major reconfigurations, which mirror material and ideational changes at the domestic and the global level of "Chinese" politics. Studies on role contestation have so far been focused on democratic pluralist political systems – role contestation in modern autocracies has remained undertheorized; the reconfiguration of China's official role sets and related concepts such as system identity and global status has remained underresearched. This project seeks to overcome these lacunae by undertaking a case study-based analysis of the PRC's internal and global role contestations. It will examine the ideas and normative ordering principles underlying the ongoing vertical and horizontal role contestation and the re-calibration of the PRC's official role set – by also including China's role interactions with "significant" other global players. Changes in terms of (role) claims or modifications of actors' global positions do not necessarily result from global structural changes, but can – as outlined in studies on the re-bargaining of national role sets in democratic systems – be inspired by paradigm changes and the substitution of policy ideas at the domestic level. This has direct implications for the sector of policy advice and political consultation: A systematic theory-guided analysis of China's domestic role contestations is a necessary prerequisite for assessing the drivers behind the PRC's role claims and its strategic positioning in bilateral interactions as well as in the context of world politics.

China and Political Order in Africa

Gefördert durch die Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG), Projektnummer 469144017, seit 2021

Als Folge von Chinas stetig zunehmender ökonomischer Präsenz im globalen Süden, vor allem mittels Direktinvestitionen und kreditfinanzierter Infrastrukturprojekte, wird in akademischen und politischen Debatten zunehmend auch der daraus resultierende Einfluss auf die politischen Prozesse in den Zielländern, insbesondere in Afrika, thematisiert. Dieser politische Einfluss scheint sich innerhalb Afrikas erheblich zu unterscheiden, wobei etliche Aspekte dieses variierenden Einflusses empirisch und theoretisch ungeklärt sind. Wir gehen in unserem Projekt von zwei wesentlichen Annahmen aus: In ihren Beziehungen mit China üben afrikanische Eliten Agency aus, die jedoch durch ihre nationalen political settlements maßgeblich beeinflusst wird. In ihrer afrikabezogenen Strategie differenziert sich die chinesische Außenpolitik – aufgrund der wachsenden Zahl an beteiligten Akteuren und Institutionen – zunehmend aus. Die im Projekt vertretene Expertise erlaubt uns, sowohl die unterschiedlichen afrikanischen settlements wie auch die Heterogenität der chinesischen Akteure zu analysieren, und daraus empirische Erkenntnisse und theoretische Erklärungen über die wachsende Komplexität der afrikanisch-chinesischen Beziehungen zu generieren. Konzeptioneller Ausgangspunkt ist der political settlements-Ansatz. Diesem Ansatz zufolge bleibt die Herausbildung und Stabilität von politischen Institutionen abhängig von der zugrundeliegenden Verteilung politischer Macht. Ein settlement-Ansatz ist ein innovativer Weg, um die Unterschiede in der Regimedynamik und politischen Ökonomie afrikanischer Länder abzubilden, aber auch eine vielversprechende Strategie, um die Rolle und den Einfluss chinesischer Akteure innerhalb eines Modells afrikanischer Politik systematisch zu integrieren. Unser Projekt wird sich entsprechend auf drei Fallstudien konzentrieren (Äthiopien, Ghana, Tansania), die gleichermaßen auf eine lange Geschichte bilateraler Beziehungen mit China zurückblicken können, sich aber hinsichtlich ihrer political settlements wesentlich unterscheiden. Der political settlements-Ansatz erlaubt uns, die Agency unterschiedlicher Elitenkoalitionen in afrikanischen Staaten besser zu verstehen und zu erklären. Die gründliche Beobachtung der sich entwickelnden chinesischen Strategien und Praktiken in diesen variierenden innenpolitischen Kontexten wird uns zugleich auch ermöglichen, die Konsequenzen für Wahrnehmungen, Diskurse und letztlich auch strategische Policy-Anpassungen auf chinesischer Seite besser nachzuvollziehen. Wir sind daher davon überzeugt, dass das Projekt mit seiner Kombination von innovativer Theorieentwicklung und empirischer Forschung in Afrika und China sowohl zu einem besseren Verständnis der Dynamik afrikanischer Politik in ihrer wachsenden Vielfalt und der kontextabhängigen Interaktion mit externen Akteuren als auch zu einem nuancierten Einblick in die zunehmend fragmentierte chinesische Außenpolitik in Sub-Sahara-Afrika (und darüber hinaus) beitragen kann. The Belt and Road Initiative as a Hybrid International Public Good (IPG)

Current research

This research is on the institutional quality of BRI as a newly evolving governance platform with IPG characteristics to stimulate global cooperation in infrastructure development across the Eurasian landmass, the heartland of the emerging multiplex world.

With an interdisciplinary perspective, the research employs Agency and Institutional Economic theories to address potential principal-agent controversies and therefore resulting collective action problems. They must be minimised in a way that BRI could successfully address both the conflicting as well as overlapping demands and supply conditions of a needed hybrid IPG, which requires an effective amalgamation between the Western experience of public good creation in the post-WW2 and China's indigenous values. These qualities of BRI are questioned in the specific context of Central Asia that takes place along its critical West-Asian economic corridor.

Environmental Conflicts in Southeast Asia

Current research

In this research environmental conflicts are defined as conflicts in which environment or single natural elements (e.g. water, land) play a crucial role. That does not necessarily mean that such conflicts are also caused by e.g. environmental degradation (although sometimes this might be the case). It is assumed that environmental conflicts, as conflicts in general, can only be understood and solved, when their (social, cultural, economic and political) context is considered properly. A basic hypothesis is that environment and natural elements, as a rule, are functioning as threat multipliers rather than single causes of conflicts. And they do so in very different ways. Due to the already noticeable, more so the predicted effects of climate change and a growing interest of financial investors for natural resources, it is assumed that environmental conflicts in Southeast Asia will increase in the future in terms of numbers as well as degree.

Geopolitics of the Chinese Belt and Road Initiative (The New Silk Road)

Current research

The Chinese Belt and Road Initiative was launched in a period of rapid change of the global world order. Globalization has slowed down since the financial crisis of 2008 and the hegemonial position of the United States has weakened significantly. At the same time the growing global political weight of the PR of China can be observed. When a hegemonial regime is declining and a new one is not yet implemented, the world is entering a period of growing rivalry of regional powers, each trying to control their zones of influence: The control of (smaller) territories is gaining importance over the control of flows and networks, and the probability of territorial conflicts is growing. In science and in politics geopolitics is back on the agenda. The geopolitical research questions are: Will the Chinese BRI in the present period of rapid change of the global world order help to produce and guarantee much needed global public goods like the freedom and safety of trade, travel and communication, the safety of investments, the rule of law, a stable global financial system? Or will it, as part of a national imperial strategy, add further to global rivalry and conflict (like e.g. the conflict in the South China Sea)?

Geography of Urban Property Markets

Current research

Urban property markets are more and more in the focus of financial investors. The links between the financial economy and the property markets imply many risks for the whole economy on all spatial scales as the latest example of the financial crisis of 2008 has shown. On the other hand access to affordable housing is a growing problem not only in less developed countries but also in the developed world, a problem, that is intensified by the financialisation of the economy. Both, the financialisation of urban property markets as well as the growing housing problem unfold on different spatial scales. Urban and economic geography have a set of theoretical and methodological approaches and tools to offer for analysing the heterogenous dynamics of urban property markets. The research focus is especially on the links between different spatial scales affecting those dynamics. A special focus is on Düsseldorf and the former industrial and workers quarter of Oberbilk.

The Institutional Foundations of Innovation in China

Current research

In recent years, innovation research has clearly shown that innovation-driven economic development relies on a broad foundation of benign cultural, social, political, and economic framework conditions. Institutions based in various social regimes must incentivize innovation creating behavior as well as the acceptance and diffusion of these very innovations in society. There exists no "one-fits-all" institutional set-up outlining the preconditions for successful innovation-driven development. Cultural idiosyncrasies, variations in the availability and costs of specific resources and competencies, specific goals of ruling elites etc. all lead to specific manifestations and combinations of institutions that in their totality promote innovation in varying intensity and on differing social and technological trajectories.

Against this background, China constitutes a highly interesting case study for the analysis of the institutional requirements as well as evolutionary genesis of innovation-driven economic development in a large non-Western society. After three decades of highly successful catching-up economic development based on the emulation of foreign institutions, business models and technologies, the Chinese economy has now reached a stage where it needs to foster more endogenous innovation in order to evade (relative) stagnation in what has become known as the "middle income trap". This requires substantial alterations not only in the structural set-up and incentive systems governing the Chinese economy, but also in the fabric and underlying norms and values structuring society as well as the self-understanding of the political elite and its organization of political processes. The Chinese business sector is already responding to the need for more endogenous innovation in all sectors and segments of the economy. By doing so, it is exerting pressure for changes in the social fabric. At the same time Chinese government and the Chinese Communist Party appear to be highly committed to transforming the economic system and promoting an innovation-friendly institutional set-up – while upholding an unwavering claim to power. The Hayekian postulate according to which only free (democratic and market-based) societies can feature dynamic, innovation-driven development dynamics instantly comes to one's mind as a "belief" of Western institutionalism and "Ordnungspolitik" that needs to be reflected upon in the Chinese context.

The Chinese State-Business Nexus

Current research

When China joined the WTO in December 2001, it agreed that other countries, notably the European Union (EU) could continue to treat it as a "non-market economy" for the purposes of trade defense measures. The background to this special arrangement lay in the fact that at the turn of the century the Chinese economy was still in transition from a centrally planned economy to a market economy based on scarcity prices and free competition. There neither existed a comprehensive set of institutions that could support comprehensive market exchanges in the economy, nor was the government willing and give up its claim to directly steer economic development of the economy, its sectors as well as its major firms.

In expectation of substantial progress of China's transition towards a full-fledged market economy in the coming years, the Protocol of Accession of China to the WTO outlined that 15 years after its accession China's status might be upgraded to a "market economy". While China interpreted the wording of these paragraphs as guaranteeing it an automatic transition to "market economy" status, the EU upheld the position that China would have to demonstrate that it complies with the five criteria defining the "market economy" status. With all economic observers agreeing, that China did not fulfil these criteria (by a wide margin) at the end of 2016, the dispute focused on juridical exchanges on the existence of a guarantee or not. Eventually, the dispute was solved with some diplomatic genius that neither awarded China the status of a "market economy", nor inflicted a massive loss of face to one of Europe's most import trade partners and thereby might have provoked an open trade war. The solution found is to completely give up the differentiation between “market” and “non-market” economies – not only with regard to China, but all economies. Instead, for all trade defense measures the normal reference value will be the domestic prices. However, if significant distortions (e.g. caused by state interferences) affecting domestic prices can be shown to prevail, international benchmark prices can be used instead. In order to make this new mechanism operational, the European Commission is going to publish specific reports identifying such distortions in on an economy-wide or specific sector level. EU manufacturers can then refer to these reports in order to determine the basis for complaints and to calculate what the normal reference prices should be.

Research is being conducted in order to assess the degree to which Chinese industries are operating according to competition-based market standards or are subjected to market-distorting governmental interventions.

Economic implications of the “Belt and Road Initiative”

Current research

A major impulse for economic development in the Eurasian continent as well as a restructuring of the global division of labour might be created with the unfolding of what has become known as the “One Belt, One Road” or “Belt and Road” initiative. Proposed by Chinese government in 2013 the initiative aims at creating a comprehensive network of transport corridors and an integrated industrial fabric spanning from China via the Middle East and Central Asia to Europe. In the course of this multilateral industrialization programme new regional and multilateral institutions that complement or compete with existing regional/global governance systems can be expected to evolve. Their shape as well as the concrete impact of the potentially emerging new regional value chains on global goods flows, investment activity, local as well as international labour markets, local and supra-national institution building, however, remains undetermined. The disruptive changes brought up by the “Belt and Road” initiative cannot result in a win-win for all parties, but will entail some a reorganization of absolute and relative wealth, income generation possibilities and economic as well as political power projection capacity. New research initiatives are required to better understand the parameters at play and identify potential local/regional/global development patterns.

Unternehmensnahe Innovation in und mit China. Handlungsoptionen für Deutsche und Europäische Entscheider in einem dynamischen Umfeld (UIIChina)

Förderung durch das Bundesministerium für Bildung und Forschung (BMBF)

Das Forschungsvorhaben untersucht die Triebkräfte für die Ausgestaltung des chinesischen Innovationssystems und dessen Einbindung in den internationalen Kontext. Es zielt auf ein besseres Verständnis des doppelten Gleichgewichts von Dezentralisierung/Zentralisierung und internationaler Einbindung Chinas unter besonderer Berücksichtigung deutscher und europäischer Unternehmen.

Das Forschungsvorhaben ist stark explorativ ausgerichtet und wird neue, relevante Daten erheben, diese strukturiert aufarbeiten und Akteuren der deutschen/europäischen Innovationssphäre (Politik, Unternehmen, Wissenschaft) zur Verfügung stellen. Auf der analytischen Ebene richtet sich das Vorhaben darauf, den Wissensstand in Deutschland und Europa über Strukturen, Funktionsmechanismen und Entwicklungsdynamiken des chinesischen Innovationssystems auf der Ebene zentralstaatlicher Innovationspolitik, lokal gestalteter Initiativen (Pilotzonen) sowie die Einbindung internationaler Akteure, v.a. von Unternehmen, substanziell zu verbessern.

Wichtige Trends des Wandels sollen erfasst und in ihrer Bedeutung für Deutschland und die EU kenntlich gemacht werden. Somit wird das Vorhaben zentrale Bausteine für evidenzbasierte Handlungsoptionen für Entscheider in Politik, Wirtschaft und Wissenschaft herstellen.

Regional Disparities and Economic Policy

Research Training Group 2484, funded by German Research Foundation (DFG), 10/2019–03/2024

The overarching goal of the RTG Regional Disparities and Economic Policy is to provide an outstanding education for doctoral students while at the same time contributing to frontier research in the exciting and dynamic field of regional economics. Combining the expertise of scholars from distinct economic backgrounds (e.g. labor, public, macro) and thus different methodological skills, institutional knowledge, and data access, we establish a graduate program that promises internationally visible scientific output and an excellent academic training environment for PhD candidates.

Research Agenda

Regional disparities – for example with respect to income, housing costs, labor market, education and health outcomes – are pronounced, persistent, and at times divergent, but the debate about their origins, consequences, and appropriate policy responses is still largely unresolved. The RTG Regional Disparities and Economic Policy aims to improve our knowledge of underlying economic mechanisms and hence lay the groundwork for well-founded policy recommendations by applying and further developing recent methodological advances in regional economics as well as utilizing unique data sets. To this end, the Research Data Center at RWI – Leibniz-Institute for Economic Research, specialized on regional data, constitutes an important partner of the RTG.

Qualification Program

The RTG Regional Disparities and Economic Policy provides doctoral students with an excellent environment for a completion of high-quality dissertations in its research area. The comprehensive qualification program combines a short, concentrated course program with structured research guidance and ample opportunities for feedback and discussion, allowing for dissertation completion within three years and promoting careers in academia, research institutes, the private economy and the public sector, including international organizations.

The Group

The RTG brings together eight internationally visible professors from different sub-disciplines within economics (e.g. public economics, macroeconomics, labor economics, regional economics or health economics) who share a genuine interest in regional aspects of the economy and access to and expertise in handling highly relevant data sets: Thomas Bauer (Professor of Economics, Faculty of Management and Economics, Ruhr University Bochum), Christiane Hellmanzik (Professor of Urban, Regional and International Economics, TU Dortmund University), Philip Jung (Professor of Economics, TU Dortmund University), Martin Karlsson (Professor of Economics, University of Duisburg-Essen), Sanne Kruse-Becher (Junior Professor of Macroeconomics, Ruhr Universität Bochum), Marie Paul (Professor for Quantitative Methods in Economics, Mercator School of Management (MSM), University of Duisburg-Essen), Nadine Riedel (Professor for Economic Policy and Regional Economics, Westfälische Wilhelms-Universität Münster), Tobias Seidel (Professor of Economics, Mercator School of Management (MSM), University of Duisburg-Essen), Jens Wrona (Professor for New Economic Geography and East Asia, Mercator School of Management and Institute of East Asian Studies, University of Duisburg-Essen), Galina Zudenkova (Professor of Public Finance, Faculty of Business and Economics, TU Dortmund University).

Together with about seven incoming doctoral students each year they form the RTG group. An extensive personal and institutional research network and RTG activities geared to outgoing and incoming (guest) researchers place its research and qualification program in the center of the international research environment in the field. The combination of methodological and topical knowledge from different sub-fields makes this RTG unique.

4 LIBRARY REPORT BIBLIOTHEKSBERICHT

The library of the Institute of East Asian Studies is integrated as East Asia Collection in the University Library (UL), and therefore applies the UL's regulations for use, acquisition policy and budget requirements. However, the collection has its own location from D76 to D87 in the first floor of the branch library LK.

The collection reflects the contemporary relevance and interdisciplinary nature of East Asian Studies. The main collection areas are politics, economy, society, geography, modern history, culture and the modern languages of China, Japan and Korea. The Collection currently holds about 31,000 monographs and more than 500 periodicals including ongoing subscriptions. The total holdings of the East Asian Collection are recorded in the networked electronic database of University Libraries of North Rhine-Westphalia and can be retrieved from the catalogue "Primo" of the UL (<http://primo.ub.uni-due.de/>).

The University Library has a number of subject-oriented databases. The subject area of East Asian Studies offers a constantly growing range of databases, reference works, portals and newspapers. These can be accessed via the homepage of the UL under the menu items "databases / in subject order / Ostasienwissenschaften".

Since the IN-EAST has a license agreement with the Berlin State Library, students and members of our institute may use the shared licensed databases from East Asia via CrossAsia, the virtual portal of the Asian studies. User registration is recommended to use the full range of CrossAsia services (<https://crossasia.org>).

Blauer Leihverkehr (Blue Loan Service) is a special form of interlibrary loan, which provides direct delivery of literature in original languages. It is based on a loan agreement between East, Southeast and Central Asian research institutes and the East Asia Department of the Berlin State Library, to which our institute is affiliated. Institute members may obtain original East Asian literature through the electronic order form (<https://crossasia.org/en/service/blauer-leihverkehr/>).

For further information, please contact Ms. Rita Németh, the library's representative.
